KEYWOOD CLUB ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the Heywood Club was held Wednesday, Jan. 13, at the Dunham home. The day was an ideal one for the club ladies to get calling and it was also learned during the morning that Miss Cherry Noble, the retiring president, had received word to come to New York, also so this proved to be our last meeting for a long time.

The afternoon was spent very pleasantly, chatting and viewing photographs. Noble, hostess, etc., that had been sent home by "Mellie" and "Gram." Hostesses served nuts, fancy cookies, and home-made candy for refreshments. Following officers were elected for ensuing year: President—Mrs. Adele Young. Vice President—Miss Floretta Noble. Secretary—Mrs. Lora Foster. Treasurer—Mrs. Addie Thurston. Next meeting in two weeks with Mrs. Una Jackson. DAVIS ON THE JOB

Fred M. Davis started this week to check up his help and to get in readiness to put over his first big job that is to be a part of the mammoth show held the week of April 5, at Lewiston.

He will hire a few out of town people but the majority he hopes to be able to procure here in his home town. Outside of staging his natural talent act, he will try to be in Lewiston, where another branch of the show will be in progress and to be prepared to accompany at the piano all the time fiddlers from this and foreign lands.

Juvenile artists will take part but old time fiddlers—sixty years and older—are all that will enter the contest and be given a chance to win the prize of one thousand dollars in gold.

The New Irish songs, words and music by Davis, will be featured with others on the season, Irish Night, and it is expected that the parade will be one of the largest ever seen in Lewiston, as many foreign countries and different towns will be represented.

New ideas are all the time in the making and the well known Maine promoter, J. J. Sullivan, promises the people one of the greatest of fiddling shows.

Other features along the line of music will be put on.

FREE CLINIC FOR BABIES

Miss Olye Ricker and local physicians will hold a free clinic for babies at Norway Grange Hall, Wednesday, Jan. 27, Feb. 4. Transportation will be furnished mothers with children other than 270 if transportation is desired.

The first clinic held here some months ago was a success in spite of a storm and much good has been the result.

Buy Maine Products Campaign
Every Citizen of the State Should Read and Profit by This Article. Start in and Help.

Starting on Monday last an active campaign will be conducted throughout the State to have Maine citizens patronize Maine products. It will be known as the "Buy Maine Products of Maine People" campaign. This will be the first drive of its kind ever instituted by any State in the Union. It will be of the utmost value to every merchant and industry of the State, as well as to the citizen, can well be understood when one realizes that Maine citizens spend annually over $200,000,000 for necessities and comforts.

Few residents of the State have ever stopped to consider what the State holds for them as against or compared with other states. Little thought has been given as to where a product comes from. It can readily be seen that keeping $200,000,000 annually in circulation in the State cannot but aid to the general prosperity of the State as a whole.

In conjunction with the campaign, a "Buy Maine Products" booklet has been prepared by Arthur Staples of the Publicity Bureau. Over 50,000 copies will be circulated throughout the State. It is a hand book of Maine products and the Maine firms producing same. It is one to have every housewife have. It has been so prepared that it can be hung on a nail in the housewife's kitchen. The booklet will be distributed to householders through the Grange, the local Chambers of Commerce and other service organizations in the State. It is in short a directory of Maine products showing where Maine goods may be obtained in the various localities.

Posters urging the buying of Maine products will also be distributed through the same media and at the same time. The idea behind this campaign will be, first, to keep Maine income circulating more in Maine; second, an increased demand for Maine products; and third, increased activity for the productive labor of the State.

Arrangements are now being made with the various service and civic organizations, local Chambers of Commerce, the Grange and Women's Clubs of the State to hold sectional meetings throughout the State to give stimulus to the movement. At these meetings speakers will be furnished by the Joint Community Committee or by the Speaker's Committee of the State of Maine Associates to fully explain the campaign and what it means to every community.

The campaign follows the general plan instituted last May by Governor Everett to broaden and make more comprehensive the development of the State along agricultural, industrial, and recreational lines, in which he has been fully supported by the various organizations working for the State's betterment.

The State advertisements are made possible through the money contributed by the various towns and cities to the Maine Development Association of which Albert J. Stearns of Norway is president.

The Committee of the State of Maine Associates in charge of the campaign is as follows: Clarence C. Stearns, Chairman, Bangor; of the Maine Publicity Bureau; William S. Linnell, Portland; Governor's Council; Charles A. L. Auburn, President of the Associated Industries of Maine; Guy P. Gannett, Portland; State Chamber of Commerce and Agricultural League; Albert J. Stearns, Norway; Maine Development Association.

The "Buy Maine Products" campaign follows the movement that Sec. Hoover has been advocating for some time on a National scale for the cultivation of home markets as the most important factor in eliminating the wastes of distribution that are at the present time a tremendous load. It is not provincial.

In the last decade California increased its industrial output by two billion dollars, laying the firm foundation for its vast and prosperous agricultural and industrial expansion with a campaign for loyalty to its own products, such as Maine is now inaugurating in the "Buy Maine Products" campaign.

The committee in charge requests if a speaker is desired from the Maine Associates for any meeting, application should be made by letter or telegram to the Speaker's Committee of the Associates at Augusta, specifying the date and time of the meeting.

Aunt Polly with the horse and wagon. The trains now run regularly between Montreal and Portland. I have to attend regularly to the buildings along the whole line of R. Road to Island Pond. At Island Pond building Depot, Hotel and wood houses. Wood house at the Hegon road at Northumberland, Milan, Gilead, Bethel, Paris, Oxford and the Junction. Machine shop at Gorham and a large Engine House at Portland. The A. & S. L. R. R. has been less'd to the Grand Trunk line for 999 years. This company to have all their obligations discharged and the stockholders to receive 6 per cent.

Aug. 24 inst. the old board of directors were again chosen. I having been chosen 9 years in succession a Director. The season has been so far very dry; a little rain yesterday and today.

Sept. 4—Very warm and dry. Streams are so low there; no grinding is done for 15 miles around except at the village mill. Large number of persons visited Montreal from Portland and the surrounding towns. D. W. Beal went there also last week. The election for State officers comes off next week. The candidates for Governor are Crosby, Fishburn, Morrill and Holmes. The contest will be between Maine Law men and Rum men. Yesterday with Webster (D. W. Beal) somewhat and had a heavy valuable growth of hemlock and hard wood on the intervals on the west side of the river.

Sept. 25—Sunday. Pleasant and windy. The season has been very dry up to this within 2 weeks. Yet there has not been enough to raise the springs. The mill pond is very low, but not too low that grinding is done with ease. We have been preparing the mill dam and the flume the past week. The State election has resulted in no choice for Governor, and no choice of 18 Senators, there having been elected 5 Fishburn men, 5 Whigs, 2 Morrill and 1 Free Soil man. The House stands about 30 Anti-Fishburn majority. The Maine Law will stand 2 to 1 in the next Legislature.

E. W. Howe has commenced the shoe business on a considerable large scale, employing 20 or 30 men and women. They occupy a large shop. The new Engine House in Portland was stop'd building by the Grand Trunk Company on account of a difference of opinion in regards to its location and after a delay of 4 weeks it was commenced again one week ago.

Note—Nate Pillsbury was Eben F. Pillsbury of Kingsfield, late of Augusta, here he edited the Maine Standard.

Morrill was Let M. Morrill of Portland, late U. S. Senator. E. W. Howe was Mr. Beal's son-in-law.—D. C. S.

Much Seed Corn for 1926
Injured by Fall Breezes

Watch Out for Your Seed Corn for the Coming Spring Planting

It is not likely that there will be any shortage of seed corn in the spring of 1926, but it is extremely likely, says the United States Department of Agriculture, that many individual farmers and even some communities will find that the seed corn on which they had counted will not grow. Tests already made of many lots of seed in the Corn Belt, indicate that the germinating power of much of the seed was injured by the low temperatures which occurred in October, before corn had dried out thoroughly. The safe thing to do says the department, is to find out now whether or not the seed will grow, and if not, get some that will, while there is plenty of time before planting.

Where tests show that the germination of corn is very poor, it will probably be better to obtain seed from some other source. Where, however, it is found by a preliminary germination test that only some of the ears in the lot were injured by the low temperatures, the corn may be planted by careful selection based on appearance followed by a germination test of the selected ears.

Slender ears, with relatively few rows of small kernels tend to be earlier maturing and dry out more rapidly than ears with a larger diameter and many rows of tightly packed kernels. They therefore are less likely to have been injured by the early frosts and should be given preference this year in selecting seed.

Corn that was cut and shocked before freezing occurred offers a possible source of seed corn. Bars toward the center of the shock were protected more or less from the low temperatures. This may have enabled the seed on these bars to escape freezing injury in some cases. A germination test of ears selected from a few shocks will show whether or not such seed will grow.

Many useless ears can be detected and discarded without the labor of the germination test if an examination of the germs of two or more kernels from each ear is made first. Cut through the kernel, across the germ. If the germ has been killed by freezing, it frequently turns dark and has a watery appearance. Ears with germs having this appearance need not be tested further, but should be discarded as the seed on them will not grow. The fact that the germs do not show freezing injury is not conclusive evidence, however, that the seed will grow. Ears should be given the germination test.

If satisfactory seed corn can not be obtained on the home farm, try to locate some that has been well stored on a neighboring farm. County agents usually know those in the community who have good seed and the agricultural experiment stations have similar information with regard to the State.

Citizens of Maine!

BUY MAINE PRODUCTS

and Increase the Prosperity of our State—

A QUARTER of a million people in this great State are supported by agriculture; 400,000 by manufacturing and the fishing industry—that accounts for most of us. We are the producers—and we are the home market, the most accessible market, the first market, for the goods we make.

A market of 770,000 people is valuable to us as producers. Worthy products—made with due attention to the needs of Maine, transported at a smaller proportion of their cost, delivered promptly from points close by—are the most satisfactory for us as consumers. When we buy Maine products and patronize Maine merchants we help Maine and we help ourselves collectively and individually.

To buy the products of Maine's farms and factories—products in which our State's pride is not a narrow or provincial policy. This policy will increase business at home, encourage productive enterprises, foster their growth individually and increase the prosperity of Maine people as a whole. And this is a natural step toward greater national service—for, as we learn fully to appreciate the fruits of our own work and ourselves prosper, therefore, we can, with greater confidence, reach out to broader markets and increase our contribution of food, clothing and other products to the nation.

To buy Maine products is a sound constructive policy for the common good. Let's adopt it, one and all.

Do This to Help

Producers—Identify the product of your family history as a Maine product. Give this as a gift. Use it. Mark it with your trade mark or by the words "Made in Maine."

Distributors—Give Maine products first consideration when you buy. Tell your customers proudly when you sell worthy Maine products.

Consumers—Both men and women—buy Maine products of Maine people. Circle Organize a campaign to arrange immediately your sectional meeting for the Buy Maine Products Campaign. Speakers and programs furnished on demand. Write for free copies of Maine Products Directory for distribution.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL Sunday School 'Lesson'

(By REV. R. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean of the Evening School, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(© 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for January 24 JESUS AND THE SAMARITAN WOMAN

LESSON TEXT—John 4:4-42.
GOLDEN TEXT—With joy shall ye draw water out of the wells of salvation.—Isa. 12:3.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus by the Well.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus by Jacob's Well.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Sinful Woman Finds the Savior.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How Jesus Deals With Sinners.

I. Jesus Must Needs Go Through Samaria (vv. 4-6).

The growing popularity of Jesus aroused the envious opposition of the Pharisees, which obliged Him to leave Judea and go into Samaria. There was another way to reach Galilee, one used by many Jews to avoid contact with the despised Samaritans, on the east side of the Jordan. He must needs go through Samaria in order to find this poor sinful woman and the needy citizens of Sychar. The great necessity which was upon Him was to seek and to save that which was lost (Luke 19:10).

II. Jesus' Testimony to the Woman (vv. 7-26).

This is a fine example of personal evangelism.

1. A Fact Asked (vv. 7-9).

Jesus tactfully made a request which appealed to the woman's sympathy. Not only did the thirst of the weary traveler appeal to her, but the fact that He being a Jew asked a favor of her, showed His sympathy for her. In introducing the conversation, He referred to that which was uppermost in her mind, namely, water. This was the teacher's point of contact. He soon passed from earthly water to the water of everlasting life which was in Himself. Every human mind has a handle. Our success as Christian workers depends upon our ability to grasp and use it.

2. Jesus' Tender Dealing With This Woman (vv. 10-15).

He first appealed to her curiosity by declaring, "If thou knewest the gift of God" (v. 10). He knew the deep unrest of the soul of the sinful woman as she went on her way. He knew if she really knew Him she would believe on Him and be saved from her sins, therefore the first thing was to get attention. When we can get one to give attention to the claims of Christ, there is good chance of winning him. He followed this appeal to her curiosity by a promise which directed her attention to her deepest needs. There is a consciousness of deep need in every soul. The deepest need of a soul Jesus only can satisfy.

3. The Woman Convinced of Her Sins (vv. 16-19).

Jesus succeeded in arousing her interest, but she did not really understand Him. Before she could understand what the Water of Life is, she must be convicted of her sin. She did not agree with Him, but became a humble inquirer. The soul must be convicted of sin before it can be converted.

4. The Problem of Worship Submitted to Christ (vv. 20-24).

This she did as soon as she perceived Him to be a prophet. Jesus knowing the inner life of this woman, told her of the glad time even then present when true worshippers could hold intercourse with God anywhere. He showed her that the place of worship is unimportant, that the all-important thing is to have the true conception of God as brought through the Jews. Since worship is spiritual, only those who have been regenerated can worship God in spirit.

5. The Woman of Samaria Witnessing for Christ (vv. 25-30).

The woman left her water pot and returning to the city said, "Come, see a man which told me all things that I did. Is not this the Christ?" As soon as she was converted she became an enthusiastic missionary. This is as it ought to be and always will be. The soul that realizes Jesus cannot be silent (John 1:41-45). The result of her testimony was that many believed on Jesus.

III. Jesus Testifying to the Citizens of Sychar (vv. 40-41).

The woman's testimony brought the request from the Samaritans that Jesus tarry with them. He abode with them two days. Though they heard the woman's testimony, they believed because of Christ's own word (v. 41).

IV. The Samaritans Witnessing for Christ (v. 42).

They declared, "We know that this is indeed the Christ, the Savior of the world." They confessed to the woman that their belief was not due to her testimony but to having heard Him themselves, that they were sure that He was the Messiah.

Safe From Others

He that respects himself is safe from others; he wears a coat of mail that none can pierce.—Longfellow.

God Governs the World

God governs the world, and we have only to do our duty wisely and faithfully, and leave the issue to Him.

God Gives Time

God never imposes a duty without giving the time to do it.—Ruskin.

Ida Lapham spent over Sunday in Norway, returning Monday.

The Seven Greatest American Authors

The first in this list I place Ralph Waldo Emerson, not from any belief in Transcendentalism, or his particular philosophy, but from the fact that he was the greatest creative genius in the world of letters that America has produced.

In the second place I put Washington Irving. His style is noted for its classic taste and charm and his writings were much admired in Europe. His "Knickerbocker Tales," "Tales of a Traveler," and "Sketch Book" are his most interesting productions. He wrote the "Life of Columbus" and the "Life of Washington," for whom he was named. The latter work is not now regarded as the best of the lives of the Father of his Country. He put his hero at the first as something more than human, and laid all causes of ill success to others, unfortunate conditions and the elements. This at times makes the reading of his work tedious and uninteresting. The real fact is, Washington was not a great general at first. He made mistakes, but learned not to repeat them, and grew in greatness as the war progressed.

Nathaniel Hawthorne I put in the third place. He first came into note as a writer of fiction. He wrote "Mosses From an Old Manse," "Twice Told Tales," and "The Wonder Book," which are American classics. His "Scarlet Letter" is said, by good judges, to be "one of the most powerful and affecting stories ever written and 'the bright spot' in it is the scarlet letter on Hester's breast." His style was superior to that of Washington Irving and for purity of diction, he was not excelled by any writer on this side of the Atlantic. His fame is marred by his too close following of his patron, Dr. President Franklin Pierce, "a Northern man with Southern principles" and his unwarranted attacks upon President Lincoln.

The fourth name in my list is J. Fenimore Cooper, who is the greatest American writer of fiction, though he did not, as a writer, reach the heights of the others.

Les Miserables" by Victor Hugo is pronounced by the best judges as the greatest work of fiction, while the "Greatest Novel" is accorded the honor of being the greatest novel.

Cooper's Sea and Leatherstocking Tales give him a distinctive place in the literature of our country. Yet his style was not good and his writings, as a whole, could tell a story admirably, however, as our own Dr. C. A. Stephens, but if he had had the easy flow and graceful touch of English that the Doctor possesses, Cooper's fame would have been far greater.

In the fifth place in my list is Harriet Beecher Stowe, the author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which has been more widely read than any other book, except the Bible. In my view, it is the greatest work of fiction, though literary critics believe, award this honor to Hawthorne's "Scarlet Letter." This may be the better judgment, but if the question were submitted to a vote of all literate people, I feel quite sure Uncle Tom's Cabin would win out by a big margin.

Mrs. Stowe's work would not compare with Hawthorne's masterpiece. She told a simple story of a great wrong as seen by a child, and in language that touched the heart of mankind. The other work was pure fiction—the creation of a brilliant mind. President Lincoln, on Mrs. Stowe's being introduced to him, was reported to have said, "This is the little woman who started this great war." He did not mean exactly that, but beyond question it had its influence in bringing on the conflict. Her "Little Eva" is one of the purest characters in all literature and she, with "Uncle Tom," himself and "Topsy" will live as long as the language endures. Mrs. Stowe's style reached its best level in "Old Town Folks" in which New England people are best delineated.

Frances Parkman has the sixth place in my list. He has been justly called the Herodotus of American history. The great struggle for the possession of North America, by France and England, will ever have a prominent place in our literature. The story was well told.

In the seventh place is Henry W. Longfellow, the best beloved of American authors. He was born in our own beautiful city (Portland) by the sea. He requires no particular mention here. His writings are familiar to our school children. They form an important place in American literature.

Some may think that Edgar Allan Poe and Walt Whitman should be in a list of the seven greatest authors, but who in my list could be crowded out for them? There is the evidence—too much delirium and melancholia about Poe's writings, and too much of prurient and rotteness and wildness about Whitman's to go with them.

—C. F. Whitman.

Maine Farmer's Income Increases

The average Maine farmer will realize $102 more for his 1925 products than he did for the products of the year before, according to the Larrowe Institute of Animal Economics, which sets the average farm income per farm in this state for the current farming year at $1,323, as compared to $1,221 for 1924. These estimated gross farm income figures are based on the most accurate data obtainable.

The Maine farmer's apparent revival of interest in livestock and especially dairy cows, betokens a new prosperity, particularly if followed up with a system of economic management of the herds, states the Institute. The good dairyman keeps enough animals on his farm to consume the roughage which he produces, and is careful to supplement this with the right kind and amount of grain or concentrate feed. He makes every attempt to produce better hay and silage and more of it to the acre, the while keeping records of feeding and production to show him which cows must be weeded out. He keeps his cows in flesh and production by supplying the necessary feeds when the pastures are gone, and builds a more profitable tomorrow by improving his herd through good sires.

As an instance of the profit derived from good management, the Institute points to a herd of 15 cows in Harrison County, Ohio. This herd produced 85,528.39 pounds of milk in one year. The total value of the product over feed costs, including all roughage and pasture, was $9,941.71. The average value of the product of each cow over all feed costs was $23.82 a month, or $278.84 per cow for the year.

President—Miss Carrie L. Plummer.
Vice President—Miss A. C. Townsend.
Secretary—Mrs. Nellie U. Stone.
Treasurer—Miss Katherine Baird.
Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Rounds moved to Norway one day last week. Although there is a foot of snow on the ground, they seem to have no difficulty in driving almost anywhere on the main roads. What would our grandfathers think about it, could they come back to earth?

Mrs. Ellen Knight sets a good example to many of us who haven't so many years to our credit. Mrs. Knight has passed her eighty-ninth birthday, yet she takes a walk nearly every pleasant day, attends church, calls on her shut-in neighbors, besides caring for her own room, etc. She also takes a keen interest in the news of what is going on in the world and is especially interested in the splendid work that our missionaries are doing for the people in foreign lands.

being the biggest theatrical house in the world, but it is considerable larger than that little cottage on Crockett Ridge or the Heywood Club or even the big barn on the lake. The other numbers on the program included an elaborate act by a troupe of Chinese jugglers and acrobats with a gorgeous back curtain of colorful Chinese embroideries and costumes of the bewildering beauty that only the Orient can produce. Then there was a Hawaiian "prince" with his band of South Sea singers and dancers, a company of "diving girls" who did all sorts of stunts in the Hippodrome's famous tank, and half a dozen other typical vaudeville "acts" and in the midst of all that super-theatricalism and lavish display of paint, powder, scenery, costumes, and lack of it, "Gram" in her quiet dress and simple dignity with not a thought beyond taking the best of care of "Mellie" and he, perhaps a bit nervous underneath but outwardly calm and unaffected, fiddling away through the program of his beloved dances and getting the biggest "hand" of the entire show!

"I don't suppose there was anyone else in the audience yesterday to whom that act made so personal an appeal as it did to me and Mrs. Shorey. Anyway, we laughed and applauded and I think we wanted to cry a little bit, but so intensely human, and I know that we came away from the theatre more than ever proud of Mr. and Mrs. Dunham, of Norway and of the state of Maine."

Vivian Akers in New York

Vivian Akers, the Norway artist, is in New York to superintend the scenic part of the special program booklet at the Hippodrome for Maine Night, has been lusting at the Van Dyke Co. studio to carry out plans for an artistic program of boom Norway, conceived by Don C. Shaw, on his recent visit here.

Vivian Akers made his presence known to Mellie and the fiddler's exclamation, "Akers!" was indeed a welcome. Akers was graciously received by the managers at the Hippodrome and they appeared delighted to cooperate in the work.

Of course Vivian was given a seat of honor in the orchestra and later escorted back stage where he found Mellie and Gram with their manager, surrounded by a group of friends. George Miller, formerly manager of the Van Dyke Co. studio, as were Mildred Seitz and Mrs. Ada Shorey.

When Mellie and Gram walked out front for their act, they were received like old friends, it was an ovation. Vivian, being hidden in the wings, could not see the act, but the manner it was received indicated the "down-east" turn was going big.

Mr. Akers has met several relatives and many Norway friends, among them is Win Kimball.

"Mellie" Played $16,500 Stradivarius

"Mellie" Dunham laid aside his old fiddle that has been his property for a quarter of a century in favor of a $16,500 Stradivarius, which he played to open the contest for old fashioned dancers which the Hippodrome is staging this week. The violin is the Prince of Stradivarius, which was loaned "Mellie" from the Rudolph Wurlitzer collection. It is on display in the Hippodrome lobby, protected by two armed guards.

The old fashioned dance contest will be held at every performance this week, the first round getting under way at the matinee, Monday. The first dance selected as the particular test of excellence, and the week's winner will be given a loving cup and the title of New York's best old fashioned dancer.

Half a hundred men and women, young and old, have entered the contest, which may or may not popularize the old fashioned dances. Dancing masters the country over are predicting a revival of the jig, waltz, polka, schottische and other similar steps, and Henry Ford has expressed himself as heartily in sympathy with this effort to bring back the old dances.

Mellie Remembered in the West

Mrs. Annie Cole Wilson of 1519 Manhattan Place, Los Angeles, California, writes about Mellie and tells things of interest as follows:

"We have been so much interested in Mellie Dunham's career and I have much pride in him and all the fine things that he has been said about him. I was tempted to send him pictures and articles in the California papers but it seems the whole country was alive over his success that he will be burdened with articles and photos and I will only add my good word to the many he has already had from everywhere.

"Dorothy left last Sunday for the East where she will be married to Mr. Gardiner M. Corbin on the 19th of January leaving me to nurse my loneliness here, but one can't be lonely nor broody very long in this wonderful climate. Surely I am glad, probably this coming summer (and) shall surely come to Norway, too, but I want a return ticket to Southern California when I make the trip. We have had the most wonderful winter imaginable so far, no rain, tho it is very much needed, no fog and warm, lovely days. Last Saturday and Sunday I went up in to Antelope Valley (on the Mojave Desert) and we rode without wraps of any kind. Hollyhocks, nasturtiums, iris, roses and calla lilies are in bloom in my garden.

"You have no idea how much I enjoy the Advertiser, much more so recently for it has so many articles of people and things and places that are familiar to me. It has been nearly thirty years since I left Norway permanently but it is still and always will be my home."

Build on Lake Shore and Boom Norway

Roger Hutchins of Jersey City, N. J., would boom Norway with a hotel on the shore of Lake Pennesseewassee. He has followed Mellie in his career about the Advertiser office. Roger explains both projects as follows:

"Very glad to hear from you. I have tried to keep you in touch with 'Mellie in New York' by forwarding press notes as they have appeared in the various publications. In the lobby of the Hippodrome is a big bulletin board, size 4x6, completely covered with newspaper clippings and snapshots of Mellie and Gram. People were standing around it 19 deep to get a chance to read them.

Your town is very much in the public mind at present. Keep up the good work.

We are all interested in Mellie's rise to fame. You have done good work. Mellie will be at the Hippodrome another week, which is unusual. I saw the show last Monday, opening night. Next week in letters will be a new bill in addition to Mellie's act. I will go again and will write you a detailed report.

The writing of the Hippodrome is 5,800. Mellie is surely a big drawing card. The theater was packed the night I was there.

With all the publicity and boosting that Norway is getting in the press, I would like to see a better than to have a track of land on the lake, build a big hotel for summer and winter tourists, get Mr. and Mrs. Woodman to manage it—a fortune for somebody and a pleasure in building it up. An ideal place in summer, and equally so in winter, with all facilities for outdoor sports and recreation. Snowshoeing, skating, ice boating, toboggan sliding, and all, while in summer, a pool for swimming, a golf course and all the other outdoor vocations—that one could wish for.

Who will build it? Find a good spring, put in a bottling department; Poland Springs did it, why not Norway?"

Mellie Fiddled at Blackwell Island

On Friday evening Mellie entertained the inmates of the New York House for the Aged and Infirm on Welfare Island (formerly Blackwell Island). Gram and some of the dancers in the act at the Hippodrome assisted.

Saco Doctor to Give Mellie 1905 Ford Car Worth $1,500 as Antique.

Dr. E. E. Gibbs, the well known Saco veterinarian, is to present Mellie Dunham with a 1905 Ford touring car, so that Mellie can tour the State of Maine after he finishes his contract in New York. This car which has been an heirloom in Dr. Gibbs' family for the past sixteen years is one of the few "long model" Fords left in existence. The car is now in cold storage in the cellar of Roy Burnham, the Saco painter. Dr. Gibbs is planning to give the car with the aid of his other "Lizzie," to Norway next spring and there present the car to Mellie before a large gathering of the citizens of that town.

Dr. Gibbs has been offered as high as $1,500 from local antique dealers for the old "bub" but he has always refused to sell, and it is hoped by his many friends that Mellie will appreciate this gift and take as good care of it as Doc has for the past ten or fifteen years.

Norway is honoring her famous townsman Mellie Dunham. A local candy maker has the Mellie fudge and our young men are growing a "Mellie Dunham mustache." This appendage is not true to type but an abbreviated "Charlie Chaplin" centered under the nostrils and cut to crotch for anything—so say the girls.

Mrs. Effie Akers received a letter Monday from Mellie, who says in part: The kid blew in yesterday. He looked some good to us. He is just what is needed and is as usual able to make himself very useful. We are both well and things are looking pretty good for us now. I am making friends where ever we go. Everyone gets me the nod and smile and glad hand and "Hello Mellie." Everyone has a friendly greeting. We expect state and cherry tomorrow morning. They want us to make records for the Victor people. I miss running into the office to buy a few stamps or envelopes but will do so when I get back home. The papers are still printing stuff about us—charts all right—all business. I hope I can last out the game. I am feeling well and strong and the work I have to do is nothing—just go on twice a day, fiddle a little, talk a little, smile and home.

The Woman's Club of Laconia, N. H., are having some square dances in Mount Opera House and are advertising Mellie Dunham's productions, whose "Rippling Waves" so captivated Henry Ford which has recently been published among other attractions.

In a business letter from John Bryant, press representative of the B. F. Keith-Albee Vaudeville Exchange, he says that Mellie is a big hit and he will play for about sixteen weeks over the country.

LOCKE'S MILLS Daisy Martin was a guest of relatives at South Paris, Monday.

Planting Dollars for a Safe Harvest

During recent years the farmer, who had formerly devoted all his land and energies to one crop, learned the value of diversified farming. Farmers in the wheat belt particularly, confronted in the past by discouraging crop failures or low prices, have recognized the folly of depending solely upon a single crop. Acres of corn, wheat, clover and alfalfa, on corn, his losses will be offset by the profits on the entire harvest. In fact, the farmer who is prospering is making every effort to reduce the element of uncertainty in his speculation.

The man who intends to plant the dollar seeds of his income in investments will to well to follow the plan of the farmer, and avoid the error that he has learned to avoid. To hazard one's fortune or small savings in one industry, railroad or utility company is neither wise nor necessary. No matter what evidence a security gives of being thoroughly sound, it may be unwise to invest the greater part of one's funds in it, since in this world of diversification no investment is absolutely safe. The investor who places his surplus funds in a wide number of different types and classes of securities, so that he will have a variety of holdings none of which will be subject to the same possible hazards, is taking a logical step toward the preservation of his principal sum.

The end of diversification in investing is a sensible attempt to minimize the element of risk. It is just as necessary to profitable and sound investing as it is to profitable farming. And it is just as possible for the man with $1,000 to invest as it is for the man who can invest $100,000.
